

Pam Zagzebski

Pam grew up in Schofield, Wisconsin and attended UW-Eau Claire where she graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English Education (7-12) with a minor in Psychology Education (7-12).

For 28 years, she taught English/Language Arts classes at the secondary level.

A few favorite units of study: Edgar Allan Poe, technical writing, Shakespeare and Romeo & Juliet, Greek mythology, Model UN, Distracted Driving Research Project, poetry writing, and The Outsiders (“Stay golden, Ponyboy”).

Also, Pam coached volleyball (5th grade to varsity) and track (7th grade to varsity), and managed several clubs including Destination Imagination, school newspaper, Project Community Volunteers, school yearbook, Key Club (Kiwanis), and Drama Club.

Pam promotes an atmosphere which values and nurtures kindness, empathy, politeness, teamwork, humor, inspiration, and good common sense.

She works to create an environment where students feel confident enough to explore, engage, and extend their understanding.

Currently, Pam lives in Amery with Vinny, Athena, and Ruthie (her naughty/adorable cats), substitute teaches for the Amery School District, and volunteers with Amery Woman’s Club.

She loves animals, photography, rivers, brie cheese, scary movies, and enjoys traveling, painting, writing, listening to 70s/80s music, and putzing around in the yard.
