

Anna Ochoa

Anna is a homeschool mom of six active boys and has spent 13 years homeschooling her children, with one graduate so far. She brings a love for learning, movement, and culture into her teaching. Anna has studied Spanish close to a minor level, studied abroad in Guatemala, served in an orphanage there, and has traveled many times to El Salvador, where her husband is from.

Anna is passionate about helping students grow through physical activity, teamwork, and confidence. She loves creating engaging PE experiences where students can have fun while building skills and character. Through Spanish, she enjoys sharing her love for language and culture while helping students gain confidence communicating with others.

Above all, Anna loves Jesus and desires to create a Christ-centered learning environment where students feel encouraged, valued, and inspired to grow.
