WELCOME TO INCH'S 28TH ANNUAL

MICHIGAN HOME EDUCATION CONVENTION!

WE ARE SO EXCITED YOU'RE HERE!

Welcome

Welcome to the 28th annual INCH Convention! It is our honor and privilege to work together with all of you to promote the family, pass on the faith, and preserve our homeschooling freedom.

Please feel free to stop by the INCH Information table to say hello, and look for all the red-shirted folks available to assist you and answer your questions. Our lineup is outstanding this year and we trust that everyone will find a message that encourages, a workshop or two that educates, and some material from the vendors that better equips us for making disciples of Jesus Christ in our homes.

There is a fervent battle raging for the hearts and minds of our children, seeking to destroy the knowledge of God and His rule over every realm of men. But we believe God has raised up the Christian homeschool movement to accomplish His objective of turning the hearts of fathers back to their children so that the next generation will hear about the Lord when they rise up and when they lie down and when they walk along the way.

2 Corinthians 5:9 states that we are to "make it our goal to please Him." This sentiment is the objective of our convention and all our efforts at home discipleship... to bring honor and glory to our Father in heaven. May His name be lifted up and His will and work be accomplished here, as it is in heaven. We pray each of you will leave instructed, informed, and inspired to continue in this most important work of raising children for the glory of God and His good pleasure. Enjoy the convention and your home education adventures!

*For the King's good pleasure,
Mike & Kim Winter

What is INCH? - - - - -

INCH, or Information Network for Christian Homes, was founded in 1984 by a group of families who were seeking to find ways to legally home educate their children in West Michigan. This quickly expanded to helping families throughout the state. As we expanded, we also became a conduit for home educating families to share a variety of information and resources with each other.

Our Mission:

To serve families in Michigan who are interested or involved in home education by providing the information, resources and encouragement needed to teach their children at home, and to work to ensure the continued freedom to do so.

Our Methods:

- Sponsoring conventions and seminars.
- Providing assistance and information via telephone, email and website.
- Providing resource materials such as books, videos, cds, information packets ... and more!
- Providing ongoing assistance and leadership training to local support groups and their leaders.
- Establishing and maintaining communication with state and national home education leaders, legislators, attorneys, and media officials.

Join INCH...

MEMBERSHIP Has Its Benefits!

Membership to INCH provides you with important information about educating your children at home in the state of Michigan and connects you with the homeschool community statewide. Your membership support allows INCH to continue to provide an annual convention, offer leadership networking and training, watch legislation that may affect parents' rights to teach their children at home in Michigan, and offer an all-new, user-friendly interactive website to better facilitate communication among homeschoolers throughout the state.

What We Do -Your membership will enable us to:

- Provide an online revamped, extensive, comprehensive website full of encouraging and useful information
- Provide online Forums - Answering homeschoolers' questions, classified advertising and posting of events, and a full service 'members only' section, including many mp3s of past INCH Convention speakers available to download for FREE
- Serve as an effective liaison between the homeschooling community and numerous state agencies and organizations across Michigan
- Build bridges between homeschoolers and lawmakers, policymakers, and educators
- Keep families informed about homeschooling law and policy developments across the state. Maintain the INCH email list to keep you "in the know." Help homeschoolers network and find the resources/support they need. Provide referrals to local support groups for new home educators.
- Provide events like Homeschool Leadership Training Summit
- Provide scholarships for homeschooling families in need

Protecting and Promoting Home Education in Michigan, INCH works in many ways! It is your association with us that allows us to better support more homeschool families. We have many member benefits designed especially for you.

Convention Policies

Please Read Carefully!

Children: We LOVE children and we are attempting to make the convention as "family-friendly" as possible, welcoming children ages 5 and up with open arms— but trusting that families will be willing to abide by the following guidelines in order to make the conference a positive experience for all attendees.

1) We are asking that those 4 years old and under be cared for off-site... except nursing babies of course. Please find childcare for your little ones with relatives or friends so that your time at the convention can be as profitable as possible. Unfortunately, each year we receive several complaints that parents with noisy babies did not leave sessions promptly when babies became a distraction. Some workshop recordings have even been rendered useless because of noisy infants. Parents, please be sensitive to everyone around you and leave the workshops or general sessions if your baby is the least bit noisy. Thank you!!

2) All 5 to 12 year olds in attendance need to be signed up for the Children's Conference as they are not allowed in the workshops. These presentations have limited seating and are geared for adults and young adults, not children. During the keynote sessions, however, children will have the option of attending either the children's conference or sitting in the general session with their parents.

3) 5 to 12 year olds must remain under the direct supervision of their parents and stay with them at all times while in the concourse area, vendor hall, or main hall— i.e. at any time they are not in the Children's Conference room under the supervision of the Children's Conference workers.

Security-Identification: It is necessary that whatever means is used to identify convention attendees, i.e. wristbands and nametags, be worn and visible at all times in the convention center. The Lansing Center is a public facility, meaning anyone not associated with the convention can walk through the concourse part of the building at any time. It is important for everyone to be able to quickly identify whether or not someone is a convention participant if they are anywhere other than in the open concourse area. If it is noticed that someone is not a convention participant and is in any workshop, exhibit hall or keynote session, please bring it to the attention of a member of the convention staff immediately. It is important that we maintain a safe and secure event.

Exhibit Hall: The Exhibitors are not directly affiliated with INCH. Convention attendees should take note that the views, attitudes and behaviors of the exhibitors are not necessarily shared by INCH.

Food and Beverages: Please do not bring outside food and beverages with you into the Lansing Center. The Lansing Center Food & Beverage Department is proud to be the exclusive caterer for all events at the Lansing Center. Refreshments will be for sale for our attendees throughout the weekend, including a lunch special in the rear of the exhibit hall on Saturday. There are also numerous vending machines located throughout the building. If you desire to pack drinks, snacks, or lunches for your family, please refrain from bringing them into the building... Picnic tables are available outside near the river for your outdoor dining pleasure.

Cell Phones & Pagers: Our preference is that cell phones and pagers be turned off whenever you are in a session. If, for emergency purposes, you must leave them on, please put phones on a vibrate only mode, and answer phone calls only after leaving the session.

General Sessions: We strongly encourage everyone to attend the general sessions. All important announcements, changes and instructions will be given during this time. The exhibit hall will be open continuously through all workshop periods, dinner and lunch. The exhibit hall will close prior to the beginning of each general session and will remain closed until the end of the general session. An announcement will be made in the exhibit hall to signal the beginning of a general session. When the announcement is made in the exhibit hall we ask that you conclude your shopping and move immediately to the auditorium.

Workshop Preferences: This year we are not asking for your workshop session preferences with your registration. Seating in the workshops will be first come, first served. You can help us plan for the demand for each speaker by completing this survey.

FOR EMERGENCIES ONLY: This number may be given to a family member or child care provider to reach parents at the convention: 517-481-5994

Keynote Addresses

Home Education: Establishing a Family-Driven Faith

Dr. Voddie Baucham –Friday evening

Do you have a biblical theology of education? Or do you simply educate your children at home because it promises safety, security, and higher SAT scores? This session is designed to examine the Scriptures with a view toward a biblical theology of education that will serve as a foundation upon which families can build a philosophy of true home discipleship.

The Lost Art of Christian Heroism

Eric & Leslie Ludy - Saturday morning

Based on Eric's popular book, The Bravehearted Gospel, this message is a powerful wake-up call to the modern church. With typical Eric Ludy candor and passion, this message will ignite your soul with the desire to fight for all that is sacred and all that is true. This message will resonate deeply with anyone interested in upholding the integrity of the Word of God and the moorings of Biblical faith in these confusing times of post-modern emergence.

Multigenerational Vision

Dr. Voddie Baucham – Saturday afternoon

Before we can do right, we must learn to think right. We all act in accordance with what we believe. Unfortunately, many Christians believe things about marriage, family and children that are grossly unbiblical. As a result we simply live for today with no thought for the consequences to coming generations. Once we grasp a multi-generational vision the pieces begin to fall into place.

FEATURE PRESENTATIONS - MAIN HALL

Family Discipleship 101: By Voddie Baucham (WORKSHOP #1 – FRI., 1:00 PM)

What is your plan for discipling your children? This is a question most Christian parents cannot answer. What's worse, they have never been asked. We must have a plan for walking with our children, teaching them, and encouraging them to walk with God. We all have an academic plan (classes they need to take, grades they should make, etc.); it is simply tragic that the spiritual equivalent is largely non-existent. This session provides Biblical tools for walking our children through the discipline/training phase, the catechism phase, and the discipleship phase as we prepare to launch them into the world.

Wrestling Prayer: Gaining Power & Victory for the Christian Life: By Eric & Leslie Ludy (WORKSHOP #13– FRI., 2:15 PM)

This powerful message establishes that God is every bit as big as He claims to be, and that He desires to do big things in the lives of His believers. Eric and Leslie Ludy challenge the mediocre expectations that many modern believers have of God, and help Christians discover the power of wrestling prayer, persistent faith, and putting on the spiritual armor of God. This session inspires believers toward building a vibrant prayer life & overcoming spiritual weakness in order to be truly ready- able to make a godly impact upon the world.

Grace and Truth: God of the Bible vs. the God of Modern Christianity: By Eric Ludy (WORKSHOP #25 – FRI., 3:30 PM)

Grace is more than the merciful hug of God; it's the divine enabling power of His Spirit to transform a human life from the inside out; to supernaturally equip us to live a life that would be impossible in our own strength. Love, joy and peace are not meant to be merely nice-sounding Scriptural concepts, but rather the daily experience and outflow of the Christian's life. In this session, Eric Ludy casts a vision for historic, Biblical Christianity, and gives a clear understanding for how to not just esteem Truth, but live it out daily through the enabling power of God.

Introduction to Family Worship: By Voddie Baucham (WORKSHOP #37 – FRI., 4:45 PM)

In two hundred years we have gone from a time when family worship was the norm in Christian homes to a time when nine out of ten Christian parents cannot tell you what the term means. Our homes should be places where Christ is worshipped on a daily basis. If we truly believe that he is central to all of life, then our homes must reflect that in the way we spend our time. In this session attendees will learn how to start a simple, powerful, life-changing practice that will turn ten to fifteen minutes a day into multi-generational impact.

Biblical Manhood in the Home: By Voddie Baucham (WORKSHOP #49 – SAT., 10:00 AM)

One of the most glaring shortcomings in the home education movement over the years has been the absence of male involvement. Women have shouldered the load with men often contributing little more than book money. As a result, there are many frustrated mothers, confused sons, and stressed marriages in desperate need of help. This session offers a biblical look at the father's role in the home and why it is absolutely essential to a successful home education. We'll address issues like feminism, hyper-patriarchy, and other excesses that have led to a complete lack of balance and order in many Christian homes. We will also see how the gospel addresses these issues and brings hope and healing.

Teaching True Love: Preparing Your Children for a God-Scripted Love Story: By Eric & Leslie Ludy (WORKSHOP #61 – SAT., 11:15 AM)

This is a vital message for parents – no matter what age your children are. Eric and Leslie Ludy offer practical, Biblical advice for helping your children experience God's best in their future love story. Learn how to lay the foundation right now in your children's lives for a God-centered romance and a future marriage that will go the distance. Come gain a clear understanding of how to impart God's pattern for faithfulness and purity to your children, and help them avoid the many pitfalls and temptations of our culture.

R.E.A.L. L.I.F.E. Homeschooling: By Heidi St. John (WORKSHOP #73 – SAT. 3:00 PM)

Let's face it: Homeschooling is challenging. Sometimes it can feel like a major accomplishment just to take a shower and get the breakfast dishes cleaned up before dinner! Most homeschool moms feel the pressure of providing their children with a solid academic foundation ~ but there's so much more to homeschooling than academics, isn't there? The truth is that the greatest accomplishment of your homeschooling is to nurture your children in the ways of the One who made them. REAL LIFE Homeschooling is about getting real when it comes to the issues that are unique to homeschooling families ~ but more important than that, it's about being reminded why we are homeschooling in the first place. It's about keeping our eyes on the goal of discipling our children. If you've ever been on the edge of homeschool burnout, if you are wondering why God has called you on this homeschooling journey, or if you just need some real honest encouragement, this is the one session you can't afford to miss!

Culture Wars: How They Affect the Homeschool Family: By Voddie Baucham (WORKSHOP #85 – SAT., 4:15 PM)

It is impossible to separate education and worldview. In fact, the main purpose of education is worldview discipleship. There is a mighty clash of worldviews going on all around us, and there is no way to escape. Educating our children at home will only postpone the inevitable. Our children WILL engage the culture. The only question is, will they do so as lambs going off to slaughter, or will they be sheep among wolves who are "wise as serpents and innocent as doves"? (Matthew 10:16)

BIOGRAPHIES OF SPEAKERS

Voddie Baucham

Voddie Baucham wears many hats. He is a pastor, author, professor, conference speaker and church planter. Most importantly, he is a husband and homeschool father who is actively involved in his children's home education. He and his wife, Bridget, have been married since 1989. They have seven children: Jasmine, Trey (Voddie, III), Elijah, Asher, Judah, Micah and Safya. Raised in a non-Christian, single-parent home, Voddie did not hear the gospel until he was in college. His journey to faith was a very unusual and intellectual one. A powerful communicator, Voddie has devoted much of his life to training and preparation for ministry. Dr. Baucham graduated from Southwestern and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminaries and has done post-graduate study at the University of Oxford in England. He is the author of six books, including The Ever-Loving Truth, Family Driven Faith, What He Must Be, and Family Shepherds, to be released Fall of 2011. See more at www.VoddieBaucham.org.

Melinda Boring

Melinda Boring, despite her last name, has been a popular workshop speaker for over 10 years. She enjoys having the privilege of sharing her personal and professional experience, humor, and compassion with others. Her presentations are packed with practical suggestions and her personable style gives fresh hope and perspective to experienced homeschoolers and newcomers alike. Melinda Boring has an undergraduate degree in Education and a Master's degree in Speech Language Pathology, but nothing taught her more about teaching children who learn differently than her own kids! Melinda has three children, and her 20 year-old son and 15 year-old daughter have both been diagnosed with ADHD. Through her work as a professional and as a parent Melinda has found that traditional methods of instruction don't work for all kids, so she began educating herself to better reach all her students. After years of trying various methods and materials to help her children succeed, Melinda started a company, Heads Up!, to help other parents and teachers who work with all kinds of special kids.

Marc Carrier

Marc Carrier is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) with many years of corporate experience in managing multi-million dollar projects. More recently, Marc has helped to equip families for greater success and life enjoyment by applying successful project management principles to the home. Marc has authored Project Management Essentials, a training program for homeschooled teens and their families, and Keys to Kingdom Expansion. He has also co-authored The Values-Driven Family: A Proactive Plan for Successful Biblical Parenting and Values-Driven Discipleship: Biblical Instruction and Character Training Manual. The focus of Marc and Cindy's "Values-Driven" ministry is to encourage and equip Christian families to make the most of every opportunity: that is, to serve God, participate in fulfilling the Great Commission, and raise children who love and serve the Lord. Thomas Clark

Thomas Clark is a life-long teacher of math and science with more than 30 years of classroom and tutoring experience at all levels, from elementary through adult. He began his career with twelve years of classroom teaching, including a full year of graduate study, and then served for five years as the State Mathematics Supervisor for the Indiana Department of Education. Mr. Clark was later promoted to the position of Director of Curriculum Development. In subsequent years, he was commissioned to author several mathematics resources for the Houghton-Mifflin Publishing Co. and for the Addison Wesley Publishing Co. As a result of his experiences, he is convinced that everyone has the ability to understand mathematics. Consequently, during the last thirteen years, he has focused on the development of multimedia programs that challenge traditional methods of instruction, and which help with both individualized and group learning. In addition, seven years ago, he founded VideoText Interactive, a company that specializes in bringing the textbook to life through technology. He then began directing his attention toward helping homeschooling parents become more effective instructors, particularly in the area of mathematics.

Phylcia Duran

Phylcia Duran has several passions: good coffee, good writing, and girls who love God! Finding a way to pull these together after graduating home school led her to Liberty University, where she graduated with an Associate degree studying journalism, going on to work in advertising at her hometown newspaper. Her experience in different methods of higher education, job hunting, and career placement has inspired her to share what she's learned with students approaching that time in their lives. Her favorite pastime is meeting new people, hearing what God has inspired them to do, and getting together for anything involving chocolate and coffee – laughter required!

Patrick Johnston

Patrick Johnston resides in Zanesville, Ohio, with their seven homeschooled children. Patrick is a family practice physician and founder of the Association of Pro-life Physicians, which envisions a restoration of a Hippocratic remnant of physicians in our communities who will not commit abortions nor refer for abortions (www.ProLifePhysicians.org). He also founded the Alliance to Reform Education Funding, which works for a separation of school and state and a private educational system that puts parents in charge of the cost and curricula of their own child's education (www.StopSchoolLevies.org). He is the director of Personhood Ohio and is a columnist on NewsWithViews.com. He is committed to re-criminalizing abortion, restoring Christian values to education, and envisions a restoration of biblical law and constitutional government in America. He is also active in evangelistic ministry and is the author of many articles and tracts, which can be read at www.RightRemedy.org. His first novel, The Revolt of 2020, has been recently published and is available at his booth. Patrick and his wife Elizabeth speak in public schools on biblical politics, the gay agenda, and the biblical family, and they enjoy raising money for their local crisis pregnancy center.

Steve Lambert

Each year, Steve Lambert speaks to thousands of homeschoolers across North America. A popular convention speaker, Steve brings more than just theory to the podium- but life experience. He is a grandfather of three, whose own children are grown and married and homeschooling their own children successfully. Steve has been married, for nearly 37 years, to Jane, author of the popular Five in a Row curriculum, and brings a refreshing combination of Information, Inspiration and honesty to his workshops. Steve and Jane have been there, done that and gotten the T-shirt as they say... and they share the wisdom that only a lifetime of experience can bring. Their theories on education are based upon real-world experience of homeschooling, managing a marriage, a business and spiritual life since they began their own homeschooling in 1981. You'll laugh and cry during Steve's workshops- often simultaneously. So bring a box of Kleenex and a friend or your spouse... and be prepared to be changed.

Stephanie Lankhorst

Stephanie Lankhorst shares from her experiences as part of a large homeschooling family supporting the medical, emotional, spiritual and educational needs of two biological children with special needs. She is blessed to be the oldest sister of Allison, 19 years old, who has Downs' Syndrome and Nathan, who is 13 years old and has Cerebral Palsy. She writes: "God has been faithful and used the weaknesses they manifest physically to draw us as a family into deeper dependence on God. We became closer knit as a family. Often disabilities drive families apart; God was gracious to provide and sustain us all and caused our family to walk in united understanding toward one another and the 'unknowns' disability brings." Certification under ICAN (the International Christian Association of Neurodevelopment) equipped me to serve families dealing with behavior and learning difficulties. I have been blessed with the privilege of seeing children overcome learning challenges through private consultations that included an assessment and a list of individualized neurodevelopmental activities. Equipping families to release their child's potential in learning and communicating is my goal.

Eric and Leslie Ludy

Eric and Leslie Ludy are bestselling authors, speakers, and recording artists who have published eighteen books. Their widely known classic, When God Writes Your Love Story, remains one of the top-selling Christian relationship books of all time. Some of their other books include The Bravehearted Gospel, Wrestling Prayer, When God Writes your Life Story, Set-Apart Femininity, and The Lost Art of True Beauty. Eric Ludy serves as the President of Ellerslie Mission Society. He is also the teaching pastor at the Church at Ellerslie and the lead instructor in the Ellerslie Leadership Training. Eric is a highly respected voice in the Church today, especially on issues of Biblical sexuality, manhood, prayer, and the deeper Christian life. Leslie Ludy serves as the executive director of Set-Apart Girl, an internationally-known organization that provides books, resources, conferences, and training for Christian young women. Leslie is widely recognized for her poignant and practical messages on Biblical femininity, purity, and set-apart living. However, Leslie's most valued ministry role is as a wife and mother. She and Eric share a burden and passion for the rescue of orphans and vulnerable children worldwide, and have adopted two of their four kids. The Ludy family lives in Colorado where they homeschool and enjoy an adventure-filled life together everyday: Rocky Mountain sunsets, evening bike rides, and the daily challenges and chuckles that four small children bring. Find out more the Ludys at www.ellerslie.com, www.ericludy.com, and www.setapartgirl.com.

Heidi St. John

Heidi St. John has been married to her husband Jay since 1989. They have seven children and have homeschooled all the way through high school. A favorite conference speaker, Heidi approaches homeschooling with humor and grace at events all across North America. She is the second of seven children, and the oldest of six sisters. Heidi's heart and passion for people comes across in her writing and speaking—whether you see her at a speaking event or at the grocery store. She's as down-to-earth in person as she is in her books and workshops. Growing up in Boring, Oregon with six siblings and a cow named Hamburger has proven to be wonderful inspiration for many of Heidi's workshops. Now, with seven children of her own, Heidi brings a heart to encourage and inspire whomever she is with. (And don't worry—you'll get the real story behind the stories!) Jay and Heidi are also the founders and executive directors of First Class Homeschool Ministries, a parachurch organization dedicated to helping churches start homeschool cooperatives. First Class has been in operation since 2000 and has over 40 locations across North America. The St. Johns reside in SW Washington state. They are blessed to share 2 acres and a home with Jay's parents. Truly, there is never a dull moment at the "St. John Chateau!"

SPECIAL FEATURES FOR INCH FAMILIES!

Watch a Movie!

Indoctrination: To instruct in a doctrine, principle, ideology, etc., esp. to imbue with a specific partisan or biased belief or point of view.

"Indoctrination" is a 90-minute documentary film that takes the audience on a panoramic exploration of one of the most important and controversial issues in the history of mankind, the issue of education.

Traveling all over America with his family in a big yellow school bus and conducting a series of candid conversational interviews, Colin Gunn, a Scottish filmmaker, actor, and homeschool father of seven children living in Texas, is on a quest to discover the origins of our modern educational system.

What he discovers is a masterful design that sought to replace God's recipe for training up the next generation with a humanistic, man-centered program that fragmented the family and undermined the influence of the Church and its Great Commission. Part documentary, part testimonial -- a confessional and a rebuke, this film is above all a challenge and an encouragement to millions of Christians who need to know what history, experience, and the Scriptures have to say about what is perhaps the pivotal issue of our time: the discipleship and training of the next generation.

OR

The Child is a documentary that explores the current state of parental rights in America. An unseen battle is developing between the rights of parents and the authority of the government to direct the upbringing and education of children. The stakes are high; the outcome of this struggle will affect countless future generations.

Little public attention has been given to the issue of parental rights. Few people understand what "parental rights" are, much less that they risk losing them. The Child will fill this void of unawareness by explaining the situation: What parental rights are, how they are being threatened, what the consequences will be, and what can be done to defend the rights of American parents to raise their children in liberty and peace.

Featured in the film are interviews with experts, leaders, and sadly, parents and children who have already experienced the pain and consequences of misguided government intervention in their family. America is at a turning point. It is vitally important to the survival of our nation that American citizens realize how much they stand to gain or lose on this one issue alone. Because it is not just "an issue" - it is a battle for the future.

2011 Children's Conference for ages 5-8 & 9-12

The children's conference will be held in the adjoining Radisson Hotel. There we have two large rooms: one for ages 5-8, and the other for ages 9-12. The hours of the Children's Conference coincide with INCH's workshop offerings, beginning about 15 minutes prior to the start of workshops so that you can drop children off and still get to your workshops on time, and concluding immediately following the adult workshops. (12:45 – 5:45 pm on Friday, 9:45 am - 12:15 pm and 2:45 - 5:15 pm on Saturday.) During keynote sessions, the Children's Conference will have optional programming offered, with only one room (where the younger children meet) open, as we assume many families would like to have their children sit with them in the auditorium during these sessions.

Ride the Waves...

At CCI, we are honored to have the opportunity to support churches and families as in their efforts to raise their children to know and follow Jesus. Every year our creative teams endeavor to create programs that are Biblical, engaging, and age-appropriate. This year is no exception! Your children will learn about discipleship (following Jesus no matter what) and trusting God and their parents as they follow the wild and wacky adventures of Wally the Wave Rider and his friends as they try to become surfers by following the teaching of the Instructor. This year's skits and stories emphasize the character qualities of obedience, faith, and compassion with application to the daily lives and experiences of the children.

Fall 2011 - Households of Strength Seminar - September 9-10 in Lansing, MI

"Do Hard Things Together With Family & Friends"

Lead Your Family to This Seminar!

Why should you attend The Households of Strength Seminar? Because God will use it to change the course of your life for the better. God's will for your family-household is so good and so wise, all you have to do is see it and you will want to live it. Eight fast-paced sessions, full of humor and insight, have been designed to turn your family back to the goodness and wisdom of God's plan.

If you and your family are drifting through this time of rapid technological and cultural transformation without the firm biblical convictions that serve as an anchor for your souls, you are likely to lose your marriage, lose your kids and lose your way of life to forces beyond your control. It's that serious.

But God has provided a New Mayflower by which you can not only survive, but thrive. It is your household managed in the light of God's Word. If you trust God enough to actually obey Him, you are His ambassadors, and your household will shine as a light in the midst of the darkness as an embassy of His kingdom.

So, take the initiative. Lead your family in a better direction. First, register to attend ASAP. Don't put it off. Then, recruit a few good friends to attend the seminar with you. Share the vision. You will be so glad you did.

Your Instructor for the Seminar-

Gregg Harris is a Christian husband and father of seven children. In addition to his training at the University of Dayton and Wright State University he brings over over 37 years of experience to his teaching and writing. Gregg and his wife Sono have home schooled all seven of their children. His first-born son, Joshua Harris, is the author of I Kissed Dating Goodbye and Dug Down Deep. His twin sons, Alex & Brett Harris, are co-founders of TheRebellion.com and best-selling coauthors of Do Hard Things and Start Here.

Gregg is also a conference speaker whose work has helped to launch and guide the Christian home-schooling movement with over 180,000 alumni families. He is the author of The Christian Home School and Founding President and Director of Noble Institute. Gregg's wife, Sono, died and went to heaven on July 4th of 2010. Now he and his three youngest children continue to live in Gresham, OR, where he serves as Teaching Elder for Gresham Household of Faith (www.ghofcc.org).

1. Family Discipleship 101 (Main Hall A)

By Voddie Baucham

What is your plan for discipling your children? This is a question most Christian parents cannot answer. What's worse, they have never been asked. We must have a plan for walking with our children, teaching them, and encouraging them to walk with God. We all have an academic plan (classes they need to take, grades they should make, etc.); it is simply tragic that the spiritual equivalent is largely non-existent. This session provides Biblical tools for walking our children through the discipline/training phase, the catechism phase, and the discipleship phase as we prepare to launch them into the world.

2. Media Choices: Convictions or Compromise? (Rooms 203-204)

By Phillip Telfer

Need help for living in our media saturated society? Do you ever wonder about the impact on your generation of all the video games, Facebook, YouTube, iPods, texting, television and more? Does it ever feel as if you are cowering like Israel before the media/technology giant Goliath... who continues to mock God and taunt our nation? Have no fear, there's help to be found in God's Word! This workshop will give you strategies and courage to say, "I will fight the giant!" in your own life and for the sake of your generation -- using Biblical principles instead of legalistic rules.

3. You CAN Homeschool High School! (Room 205)

By Bret Welshymer

Studies indicate that homeschooled high-schoolers are far more likely to remain committed to Christ than those who attend public school or even private school. But what subjects do your high-schoolers truly need to be trained toward a commitment to Christ? Bret explores high school level subjects, discovering ways to integrate some together and teach your high-schoolers according to graduation standards, but consistently keep a Biblical worldview and focus on Christ top priority. Look forward to homeschooling your student through high school and make Christ a central focus during these crucial growing years.

4. Homeschooling in Michigan in 2011 (Rooms 201-202)

By James Muffett

A "State of the State" for home education in Michigan. This presentation outlining the history and current climate with regard to educational freedom is especially important for families that are newer to homeschooling. We must remember that, "The price of liberty is eternal vigilance."

5. Frustrated and Stressed? (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Kathie Morrissey

Are you a frustrated homeschooling parent, with lots of stress but little joy? Many homeschooling parents struggle with stress, anger, and discouragement. Kathie discusses several causes of frustration, and then tells how to deal with them. She also stresses the importance of having the "right spirit" in dealing with your children.

6. Choosing and Using Curriculum (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Melinda Boring

Understand your curriculum choices so you can choose more effectively! Melinda presents principles to consider as well as specific comments on many available materials and their effectiveness. This will help you understand your needs better so you waste less money on materials that don't work! We will address special needs, but have much to offer every parent making curriculum choices. Confused about educational styles, grade levels, or what your learner can do independently? Want to know the pros and cons of various reading and math curricula? Come and hear this before you spend your budget!

7. Busy Homeschooling Mom's Guide to Romance (Rooms 101-102)

By Heidi St. John

What comes first, the marriage or the math lesson? Most homeschool moms have felt the pull and pressure of trying to balance their marriages and their commitment to motherhood. Hey, most homeschool moms are happy to find time for a shower, let alone a romantic night with their husband! Yes, it's true: Homeschooling adds a new dynamic to the pressures of motherhood - but it doesn't mean you need to let your marriage suffer! In fact, it's never been more crucial than it is right now to strengthen the core of your family. In case you are still wondering, your marriage comes first. In this workshop, you'll learn several key ingredients to balancing your love life with language lessons ~ and how you can become the most romantic homeschool mom on the block! Come hear a story of personal experience that will challenge the way you view your marriage and inspire you to seek God's heart as you model a strong healthy marriage for your children. This is Heidi's favorite topic, so bring a notepad and fasten your seatbelts! It's time to put the "real OO" back in your Homeschool!

8. Preparing our Sons and Daughters for Marriage (Rooms 103-104)

By Mike Winter

This workshop will help parents and young adults think through the criteria for determining when to marry and the character qualities they should both possess and look for in those they are hoping to marry. Having criteria and standards by which we can aim and measure, allows us to focus on the objective rather than being driven by emotion and hormones! Using Biblical standards we will create at least a start for objectively moving toward marriage prospects.

9. Provide, Bless, and Extend (Banquet Room 8)

By Becky Zuzula

Looking for ways to cut down on costs? Come learn how to provide for your family, bless the body, and even have more left over to extend charity... Simple tips for strategic shopping to help you save more $$ on your groceries... so you can live on less and give more.

10. The Seven C's of Biblical History (Banquet Room 6)

By Polly Brown

Incorporating biblical history into your home education is essential for making the Bible relevant to your children. Bible "stories" are not working! Take a new look at the Seven C's of Biblical History, and learn how to meaningfully teach them no matter what curriculum you are using.

11. Teaching Math Without a Plan? You've Got To Be Kidding! (Banquet Room 4)

By Tom Clark

This workshop is designed to help parent-educators understand the scope, the sequence, and the logic of mathematics instruction from pre-school through adult. Join Tom Clark, founder of VideoText Interactive, as he takes you on a sometimes humorous journey, describing all levels of arithmetic and especially mathematics courses encountered in high school and college. In addition, considerable attention will be given to identifying the "why" of the study of mathematics with an emphasis on the development of concepts, instead of rote memorization.

12. Dyslexia: Neurodevelopmental Causes (Banquet Room 2)

By Stephanie Lankhorst

Does your child struggle with writing his letters, does he reverse what he hears or reads? Perhaps he has trouble expressing himself with words. Dysphasia and dysgraphia are similar to dyslexia. Poor recall of ideas, inconsistent use of phonics and remembering sight words are also symptoms of dyslexia. Poor coordination in walking and running or poor balance are typical disconnects for children with reading struggles. Do these symptoms relate to an underlying cause? Are there ways to address dyslexia at its core instead of only removing a few symptoms? There is hope! Parents can effectively teach their child, address causes and equip them to overcome symptoms and live to their fullest potential.

13. Wrestling Prayer: Gaining Power & Victory for the Christian Life (Main Hall A)

By Eric & Leslie Ludy

This powerful message establishes that God is every bit as big as He claims to be, and that He desires to do big things in the lives of His believers. Eric and Leslie Ludy challenge the mediocre expectations that many modern believers have of God, and help Christians discover the power of wrestling prayer, persistent faith, and putting on the spiritual armor of God. This session inspires believers toward building a vibrant prayer life & overcoming spiritual weakness in order to be truly ready- able to make a godly impact upon the world.

14. Dreams, Desires, Decisions: A Look at Life Purpose (Rooms 203-204)

By Woody Robertson

A life with purpose establishes the difference between a young person that will simply exist in this world and a young person that has what it takes to change the world! The world steps aside for an individual who is passionately living out a significant life purpose and mission. Most homeschoolers today never lack available opportunities, instead they struggle to confidently know which items on their to-do lists are God-ordained. This functional session will assist students in identifying their individual, God-given, world-changing life purpose and then help plug it into action!

15. Homeschooling High School: What's Required? (Room 205)

By Kathy Holcomb

The big question is what do our children need to study during high school? Let's discuss the state requirements, what our responsibility is as homeschoolers, and what exactly is a credit. Just what is needed to make sure our children are doing enough, and ready to leave our home for college and/or career.

16. Parents Have Rights We Must Preserve! (Rooms 201-202)

By David Kallman, Esq.

Are you aware that there are serious impending threats to our parental rights... threats of which every parent must be aware? David will review the unalienable right of parents to direct and control the education and upbringing of their children, expose the very real threats to that right, and then provide a compelling argument for what we can and must do to preserve that right— including an amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

17. Avoiding Burnout, Achieving Balance (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Kathie Morrissey

As homeschooling parents struggle to get everything done that needs to be done, often they end up with "homeschool burnout". It doesn't take much to throw things out of balance, so we must be aware of some of the "enemies" that lead to burnout and a lack of balance. Kathie will address the issues of physical, emotional, and spiritual burnout, as well as the need for self-renewal

18. Confidence to Begin the Homeschool Journey (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Steve Lambert

Most beginning homeschoolers are overwhelmed by the bigness of the task before them. In today's homeschool market there is no lack of information but there is often a lack of inspiration. Steve Lambert's most popular workshop combines the wisdom gleaned from more than 17 years of home schooling and the perspectives of a grandfather whose children are grown and married with families of their own now. You'll come away feeling not only good about the choice you've made but confident about your ability to be successful.

19. 10 Things My Mom Did Right (Rooms 101-102)

By Mercy Hope

Courage to stand alone... being the same person around company that you are with your family... seeing yourself as God sees you... these are just a few of the life-impacting character traits and life lessons that were passed down to Mercy by her mom, Skeet Savage—and that your children will thank you for instilling in them. This fast-paced, story-laced session will warm your heart and challenge you to examine the legacy that YOU are leaving. Will your children rise up and call you blessed? This is a great message for parents and youth to attend together.

20. 10 Ways to Rock Your Wife's World (Rooms 103-104)

By Patrick Johnston

Men, don't just be tolerated – be celebrated! Master the art of blessing your wife, meeting her needs, and driving her madly in love with you. Learn how to strum the chords of her heart to strengthen your marriage. It's never too late to learn how to "rock your wife's world."

21. Homeschooling Economically (Banquet Room 8)

By Shirley Solis

One income homeschool families often feel pressed financially, lacking the resources to get ahead. How are we to manage these resources and be good stewards of what God has given us? In this workshop, Shirley Solis will share the many options available to homeschool families with a low budget, and the ways to not only stay afloat, but make it happen during hard times.

22. Yrotsih: Do We Have It Backwards? (Banquet Room 6)

By Michelle Miller

How did I have it backwards all those years as a student, even in Christian school, and later when I began homeschooling too?! The aim of "history class" was knowing more about people. Ironically, while I was teaching history that way, I was worried, worried, worried: Would my children know God? Would they be sure of His reality? Would His truths ever seem connected to real life? Aha! Finally, I realized! History is actually a prime opportunity to reveal God and parade those truths convincingly, and then to see how people responded in history! Talk about "meaningful!"

23. Writing As A Ministry, Profession, and Calling (Banquet Room 4)

By Scott McCausey, Eddie Jones, & Cindy Sproles

Writing for God really is a ministry. Learn the importance of including a Christian worldview in writing and guiding your child toward a personal ministry. Whether you write Christian fiction, non-fiction, or contribute to your church newsletter, writing is a calling. In this class we'll explore the art of writing newsletters, ads, greeting cards, devotions, and church mission proposals, even obituaries. We'll demonstrate how writing within these venues can not only minister to others but begin to build writing credits.

24. Helping the Distractible Child: Part 1 (Through the Primary Grades) (Banquet Room 2)

By Melinda Boring

Does your child fidget, seem to be in constant motion, or frequently go off on tangents? Maybe your child can sit still just fine but seems to be in his own little world rather than attending to the task at hand. Does a twenty-minute break take two hours at your house? Come and learn the best teaching tips for working with distractible children as well as ways to tweak the learning environment and develop your child's awareness of time passing.

25. Grace and Truth: God of the Bible vs. the God of Modern Christianity (Main Hall A)

By Eric Ludy

Grace is more than the merciful hug of God; it's the divine enabling power of His Spirit to transform a human life from the inside out; to supernaturally equip us to live a life that would be impossible in our own strength. Love, joy and peace are not meant to be merely nice-sounding Scriptural concepts, but rather the daily experience and outflow of the Christian's life. In this session, Eric Ludy casts a vision for historic, Biblical Christianity, and gives a clear understanding for how to not just esteem Truth, but live it out daily through the enabling power of God.

26. Agents of Change: Take New Ground, Soar to New Heights (Rooms 203-204)

By Mercy Hope

We hear messages about changing our world for Christ. Still our world is as lost as ever. It has a soul sickness that it's not recovering from. So how can we become agents of change to this broken world? Mercy discusses several elements that are holding this generation back from impacting their world for Christ. She then offers five keys that equip World Changers to effectively advance the Kingdom of God with passion, power and authority.

27. Homeschool Record Keeping: Transcripts, Tests, and a Timeline (Room 205)

By Kathy Holcomb

This session will provide an introduction to a transcript, what it is, how to create it, and what to include on it. Then we'll briefly discuss college entrance tests and present a suggested timeline for what to do when during the high school years from a homeschool mom's perspective... so that we can get it done.

28. Family Conflicts Over Media: Handle With Care (Rooms 201-202)

By Phillip Telfer

What do you do when you discover that your kids are digitally connected to nearly everything and everyone but you? How should a spouse respond if the husband and wife are not on the same page regarding media choices in the home? Rediscover timeless Biblical principles that can be applied to modern family struggles.

29. Homeschooling Through the Seasons of Life (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Heidi St. John

Blessed are the flexible - for they shall not break! Have you been homeschooling through some challenging seasons of life lately? It has been said that the only thing we can be sure of in this life is that nothing stays the same. Homeschooling is no different - one year we may be homeschooling just a 3rd grader, but the next we'll have a 4th grader, a kindergartner, a new baby in the house, an aging parent to care for, and to top it all off: a husband who lost his job! There are seasons of upheaval - moving, financial difficulties, and perhaps health challenges, when it's easy to wonder if we can really keep homeschooling successfully through all the change and difficulty? Come be encouraged: "Yes you can!" And even more, it's most probably the BEST thing you can do for your family during these times. Join Heidi St. John as she talks about how to navigate through the changing seasons of life, and find joy and freedom in homeschooling along the way.

30. Sibling Squabbles in the Classroom (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Kathie Morrissey

Sibling rivalry and squabbling is something we all deal with in our homes. It can be frustrating, as well as discouraging! It's important that we teach our children how to respond to conflict God's way. Don't let the arguing and strife disrupt your school days. Find out what some of the most common causes of sibling squabbles are, and learn about some practical solutions to the problem.

31. Adoption and Homeschooling (Rooms 101-102)

By Charlie Nunez

Is adoption a hindrance to homeschooling? What are the legal aspects of adoption? What about foster care? What does the Bible say about adoption and what is the call of the Christian home and church in a culture laden with orphans?

32. Raising Boys to be Godly Men (Rooms 103-104)

By Kenneth Knott

Presented by a homeschooling father of six boys, this workshop is for fathers interested in taking a more active role in raising their own sons toward biblical masculinity and maturity. Practical advice is offered in the way of capitalizing on the strengths of other like-minded men so that sons experience a plurality of leadership in which fathers play a central role. Education is presented as natural, engaging, and a source of intimate joy for fathers and sons together. This workshop will challenge, inform, and leave you encouraged!

33. Small Steps to Healthier Living (Banquet Room 8)

By Nancy Sisson

We will look at how to live healthier following the plan set down by the Creator in the days of creation. Not only will we give ideas on healthy food choices but look at our life habits, environment, liquid intake, and the impact of our emotions on our health. There will be numerous suggestions of little changes families can make in all areas to make their lives healthier without a large increase in their budget. Nancy Sisson has a Naturopathic Doctor's degree and will be looking at this issue from that perspective.

34. Teaching Responsible Christian Citizenship (Banquet Room 6)

By James Muffett

This seminar features a unique view of civics, government and history through the lens of scripture and offers fresh ideas for teaching these important—but often not very exciting—subjects.

35. Teaching Reading: Overcoming the Hurdles (Banquet Room 4)

By Stephanie Lankhorst

Every child is born with an innate passion to learn. How have parents fostered this desire as their children began school? Some children learn to read as easily as a duck takes to water – naturally, effortlessly and nearly independently. How can parents foster hope and determination when their child struggles as if reading were as monstrous a task as moving a ton of bricks? There is hope. In this session hear ideas on foundational activities that are fun and intentioned toward reading preparation – for children of all ages. Discover practical ways to build reading comprehension, and see how to perceive root causes to reading delays and use them as stepping stones to unleash learning potential.

36. Helping the Distractible Child: Part 2 (Upper Elementary Onwards) (Banquet Room 2)

By Melinda Boring

Have you ever considered recording your voice so you wouldn't have to keep saying the same things over and over? If you feel as though you are constantly redirecting your distractible child, it may be time to teach some strategies to promote self-monitoring and greater independence. Find out how using a menu can help identify areas of distractibility, encourage your child to take responsibility for using strategies, and learn ways to tackle projects and get them done on time.

37. Introduction to Family Worship (Main Hall A)

By Voddie Baucham

In two hundred years we have gone from a time when family worship was the norm in Christian homes to a time when nine out of ten Christian parents cannot tell you what the term means. Our homes should be places where Christ is worshipped on a daily basis. If we truly believe that he is central to all of life, then our homes must reflect that in the way we spend our time. In this session attendees will learn how to start a simple, powerful, life-changing practice that will turn ten to fifteen minutes a day into multi-generational impact.

38. When God Writes Your Love Story (Rooms 203-204)

By Eric & Leslie Ludy

Based on the Ludy's bestselling book When God Writes Your Love Story, this inspirational and practical message explores the foundations of a God-scripted love story, the art of faithfulness, and God's pattern for true purity. This session by Eric & Leslie helps teens gain God's perspective on building healthy guy/girl friendships, finding godly purpose and fulfillment during singleness, and keeping Christ at the center of their love story, even before they meet their future spouse.

39. Exploring the Options after High School (Room 205)

By Phylicia Duran

Many colleges want students to subscribe to the idea that their way is the only way: Debt after four years or even five, with a degree they could have gotten in half the time and money, with MORE experience. This will be an informational overview of what options are available to students after they graduate from high school. Having been to community college, lived on campus at a Christian four year university, and done distance learning, Phylicia Duran has experienced three of the four options to be discussed. The fourth is trade schools-- i.e. building trades, cosmetology, culinary, etc. Not a proponent of any one educational method, Phylicia will encourage students to research which option fits them best and gear all their pursuits and activities towards that end. This workshop will also address how to begin preparing for a career in high school. There are many ways to get a head start on college while students are still in high school. We will discuss building a resume, acing interviews, what jobs, volunteer work, and leadership experience to involve yourself in, how to search for scholarships, how to network and gather references, and what skills to cultivate to impress future employers. This topic will be timely for freshman in high school through age 25—and, of course, parents, too.

40. Finding Freedom from Media Captivity (Rooms 201-202)

By Phillip Telfer

Finding freedom often starts with an understanding that we might be blind to our captivity. When Jesus talked to His followers about gaining freedom they responded, "we have never been in bondage to anyone." This generation has become captive to TV, captive to social networks, captive to texting, captive to video games, captive to pornography, and captive to a number of other forms of electronic media that have taken control of many lives and are holding them hostage. Many adults, young adults, teens, and children have been deceived by the world's philosophy that freedom means doing whatever you please. Learn what authentic freedom is and how to escape the cultural walls that try to keep us from it.

41. Secrets to Going the Distance (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Heidi St. John

YES YOU CAN. Sometimes, these three words help parents who are "on the fence" about homeschooling all the way through high school be confident enough to give it a try. Hey, we won't lie to you! It can be intimidating. But the fact of the matter is that you really CAN do it! Homeschooling through high school is the gift that keeps on giving because it affords the one thing that is so fleeting in the teen years: time. Psalms says that children are like arrows in the hand of a warrior and this analogy is a beautiful picture of a healthy parent/teen relationship. Think of an archer and how he prepares to launch his arrow. The archer's goal is to have that arrow hit the target, and go as far as it possibly can when it is released from the bow. If we follow this analogy, it holds several truths for us as we consider the benefits of homeschooling through high school. We'll talk about this ~ and revisit God's heart for discipleship between parents and their children. It doesn't end in high school. And homeschooling, in the hands of godly parents, becomes a tool that is unmatched as we raise our children to love and follow God.

What are the two options under which families may choose to homeschool in our state? David will help you be informed, not intimidated, when it comes to answering questions, filling out forms, and dealing with school officials.

43. I Love You... But Sometimes I Don't Like You Much (Rooms 101-102)

By Shirley Solis

A parent often remembers the very young years, when it seemed a child could do no wrong (even when they did wrong!) Somehow this changes when they get older and develop their own personality. Shirley expresses her struggles and successes as she has learned to develop a working relationship with her growing children.

44. Single Best Investment You Can Make in Your Homeschool (Rooms 103-104)

By Steve Lambert

A science tutor? A state-of-the-art computer perhaps? A summer trip to the Smithsonian and the White House? If you have limited resources (and what homeschooler doesn't?) what's the single best investment you can make which will change the entire homeschooling experience for you and your children? Is there one investment that will bring tranquility to the homeschool classroom, friendship to sibling rivalries, and academic success in the college years? Yes, Steve believes there is! Come learn about the single best investment you can make in your homeschool.

45. Now Calling All Entrepreneurs (Banquet Room 8)

By Woody Robertson

It has been said that the most significant years of a young person's development are between the ages of 8 and 18. While the rest of the world is waiting for life to begin, today's homeschoolers are taking advantage of these years for purposeful endeavors and entrepreneurial pursuits. This session is for those who are not afraid to put their creative juices to work, learn some business lingo, and discover practical steps to start and grow your business. Hear stories of entrepreneurs who started small. From a lemonade stand to the next Google, walk away from this session with practical information to get started in your entrepreneurial venture.

46. The Relevance of Genesis... to More than Just Science (Banquet Room 6)

By Polly Brown

Statistics and church attendance shows we are spiritually losing the next generation!! Discover why. Using information gleaned from Ken Ham's book "Already Gone", this workshop examines the reasons youth are leaving the church. Overwhelmingly, we must make the Bible relevant to everyday life. The first step in doing so is to present a literal interpretation of Genesis, as written. Deepen your faith and your confidence in standing firm on the Word of God as the ultimate authority.

47. Books: A 'Life' or 'Death' Issue? (Banquet Room 4)

By Michelle Miller

What truly injects life into a book for our students? How can you spot it? How will it impact their lives? What spiritual undercurrents determine the nature of reading and study materials for our children? Real life examples and insightful discussion will have you seeing your reading material choices in a new light!

48. Homeschooling Special Needs Panel Discussion (offered twice) (Banquet Room 2)

This is a resource gathering/networking opportunity. There will be various tables where parents can talk and ask questions utilizing other 'expert' homeschool parents on a variety of topics including autism, sensory integration disorder, down syndrome, food allergies, therapies, speech, homeschooling a special needs child in a large family, etc.

49. Biblical Manhood in the Home (Main Hall A)

By Voddie Baucham

One of the most glaring shortcomings in the home education movement over the years has been the absence of male involvement. Women have shouldered the load with men often contributing little more than book money. As a result, there are many frustrated mothers, confused sons, and stressed marriages in desperate need of help. This session offers a biblical look at the father's role in the home and why it is absolutely essential to a successful home education. We'll address issues like feminism, hyper-patriarchy, and other excesses that have led to a complete lack of balance and order in many Christian homes. We will also see how the gospel addresses these issues and brings hope and healing.

50. Ambassadors for Christ: Shining as Lights in the Word (Rooms 203-204)

By James Muffett

In this dynamic and motivational presentation, young people will be inspired to shine for Christ in every area of life—public and private. Teenagers need to know that they are created by God for THIS TIME and THIS PLACE with a divine destiny to fulfill.

51. Bachelor's Degree by 18: What Colleges Don't Tell You (Room 205)

By Woody Robertson

How did our Founding Fathers graduate from college at 15, 16, or 17 years old? This practical session will review the history of education beginning with the Founding Fathers, and talk about the concept of grades and "removing the spines off of the curriculum we buy," suggesting instead that we personalize education to each student's individual ability and speed. We will talk about how John Dewey introduced the insidious grade-based system in the early 1900s and how this has now become the standard for public education, colleges, and even homeschooling. Woody will share stories from his own homeschool days as a student in this dynamic session about getting off of the educational conveyor belt and inspiring students to greatness.

52. Media Choices: Convictions or Compromise? (Rooms 201-202)

By Phillip Telfer

Need help for raising children in a media saturated society? Are you concerned about the impact of video games, Facebook, YouTube, iPods, texting, television and more? Do you feel as if you are cowering like Israel before the giant Goliath who continues to mock God and taunt the nation? Have no fear, there's help to be found in God's Word. This workshop will teach you how you can fight the media giant in your life and your family by using Biblical principles not just a set of legalistic rules.

53. Exposed, Insulated, or Isolated? (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Bret Welshymer

In our world it is very difficult to protect our children from the influences of those who seek to pollute our children's minds. Some respond by giving up and just leaving it to prayer; after all, it is a tough battle, and we got through it okay when we were young. Others withdraw, seeking to protect their children from the world. Is there a better way? Learn how we can insulate our children from evil, and at the same time equip them to battle against it, spreading God's Kingdom into a dark world.

54. Busy Homeschooling Mom's Guide to Time Management (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Heidi St. John

Tick Tock. Have you ever experienced a series of days, weeks or even months when you felt like you just could NOT get on top of all that you had to do? Have you just decided that it's either school or dinner? Or maybe you just gave up school and now everyone has matching socks again! Most moms struggle with finding a balance when it comes to homeschooling and staying on top of the rest of your day. Homeschool mom, if you're struggling with trying to do it all, you will enjoy hearing some of Heidi's favorite tips for managing homeschooling and homemaking...and still finding time to fit in "other things" (like alone time with your husband!) This is an opportunity GET SET FREE from the expectations of others, laugh out loud, and learn how two words: BE INTENTIONAL can make a huge difference in your ability to manage your home and your homeschool well. Bring a friend and leave your preconceived ideas at the door because real moms sometimes serve Cheerios for dinner!

55. God's Design for Choosing a Mate (Rooms 101-102)

By Tom Houck

The second most important decision someone will ever make is whom they choose to marry. Whether consciously or not, everyone uses a certain criteria for making that choice. The Bible has a lot to say on this subject. Long before a person decides whom they are going to marry it is best to decide what method they are going to use to make that choice. I will separate them into three categories that I titled Revelation, Resume and Forfeit. The earlier in life the biblical method of choosing whom to marry is used, the more protection and blessing a person can receive. This decision has a dramatic impact on how a person lives their life even at early ages. Out of all the different methods people use to choose their spouse, there is only one biblically based method that contributes mightily to the success of a marriage and doesn't violate other scriptural directives.

56. Family Leadership 101 (Rooms 103-104)

By Marc Carrier

Drawing from his many years of experience as a project manager, Marc offers some from-the-trenches, simple and practical tips for other Dads who want to become more effective and productive in the home. As we strive to meet his goal, we are equipped to fulfill our primary goal of glorifying God and expanding His Kingdom.

57. Common Sense Business For Kids (Banquet Room 8)

By Shirley Solis

58. Hot Rods and Hope Chests: Boys and Girls and History (Banquet Room 6)

By Michelle Miller

We men and women cannot stop laughing (or crying!) over the differences between us. Mom, are you considering these same differences when teaching history to your sons? We gals can enjoy relating to people of the past, but guys engage best when seeing God's historic unveiling of the potent truths which have past/present power and future impact. This workshop will transform your odyssey through history, igniting in your boys and girls both current interest and world-changing vision!

59. Teaching Math: Computation, Concepts, & Math Fact Retention (Banquet Room 4)

By Stephanie Lankhorst

Even children who are two years behind in math concepts can have fun with math computation and begin to retain math facts... Discover how visual learners can grasp math and what they can do to prepare for success with math concepts. Math facts taught with visual, audio and tactile modalities are retained with the help of a neuro-organizational secret revealed in this seminar. Her goal is to teach to a child's strength while at the same time supporting the ineffective learning modality with specific stimulation – math requires thinking in words and in pictures. Efficient learning releases unforeseen potential!

In this interactive session we will discuss ways of narrowing down the search and talk about some of the most important steps in making a wise decision about where your student should attend college.

64. Regaining Focus in an Age of Digital Distraction (Rooms 201-202)

By Phillip Telfer

For over 60 years, American culture has had an ever increasing infatuation with electronic media and entertainment. A handful of thoughtful skeptics in the past contemplated the long term effects on family, society, and individuals. Now we are reaping the consequences as more and more studies confirm what some had rightly predicted. That is, our ability to be attentive is steadily eroding. We are becoming less attentive to our families, study, work, and most importantly, to God. What are the results and what will it take to regain the ground that has been lost?

65. Transforming Mundane Moments into Eternal Treasures (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Mercy Hope

Have you recently evaluated how much of what you pour yourself into on a daily basis has lasting value? In the hectic world of spilled sippy cups, endless bills and mounds of laundry many parents wonder if they are really making a difference. This message is an invitation to examine our daily routine in light of the final day of testing where you will not be compared to those in your support group, but by God's standard. 67. An Appropriate Standard for Homeschoolers (Rooms 101-102)

By Kenneth Knott

Of course, a homeschooling family's standard for success should be biblically based. But what exactly does this mean? Too many families measure their successes (and failures) by way of inappropriate comparisons. Most public and private schools, as well as many youth ministries, cater to the masses and therefore offer ineffectual baselines. This workshop offers practical, liberating advice on how to avoid the pitfall of false comparison while embracing a standard of excellence based on the Bible and common sense.

68. For Men Only (Rooms 103-104)

By Steve Lambert

What do women really need from us as home school fathers? What do our children really need from us? How can we help with the home schooling when we're working hard to provide for a single-income family? Is home schooling right for our family? How long should we continue home schooling? What about life after home schooling? This man-to-man workshop provides the kind of real-world answers to these difficult questions that every man needs to hear. More than 17 years of experience and a great sense of humor allow Steve Lambert to speak directly to men about these important issues.

69. Which Vaccines Should I Give My Children? (Banquet Room 8)

You'll also see DVD examples of speech and debate students from recent tournaments and club meetings.

71. How to Fit Writing Into Your Schedule and Enjoy It! (Banquet Room 4)

By Danielle Olander

We all know how important writing is, but making sure it is a part of our school day isn't always easy. This workshop will cover three essential skills that will allow your students to become confident, independent writers and allow you to use writing as a tool for learning in your other subject areas.

72. Homeschooling Special Needs Panel Discussion (offered twice) (Banquet Room 2)

This is a resource gathering/networking opportunity. There will be various tables where parents can talk and ask questions utilizing other 'expert' homeschool parents on a variety of topics including autism, sensory integration disorder, down syndrome, food allergies, therapies, speech, homeschooling a special needs child in a large family, etc.

73. R.E.A.L. L.I.F.E. Homeschooling (Main Hall A)

By Heidi St. John

Let's face it: Homeschooling is challenging. Sometimes it can feel like a major accomplishment just to take a shower and get the breakfast dishes cleaned up before dinner! Most homeschool moms feel the pressure of providing their children with a solid academic foundation ~ but there's so much more to homeschooling than academics, isn't there? The truth is that the greatest accomplishment of your homeschooling is to nurture your children in the ways of the One who made them. REAL LIFE Homeschooling is about getting real when it comes to the issues that are unique to homeschooling families ~ but more important than that, it's about being reminded why we are homeschooling in the first place. It's about keeping our eyes on the goal of discipling our children. If you've ever been on the edge of homeschool burnout, if you are wondering why God has called you on this homeschooling journey, or if you just need some real honest encouragement, this is the one session you can't afford to miss!

74. The Sacred Claim: The Power of a Poured-out Life (Rooms 203-204)

By Eric & Leslie Ludy

In this session, Eric and Leslie Ludy explore a crucial aspect of the Gospel that many Christians overlook - every believer's call to be God's hands and feet to the lost, the weak, the poor, the destitute and the orphan. Teens have an incredible opportunity during this season of life to make an eternal impact upon the world around them. Eric and Leslie challenge the self-focused mentality that many young people adopt during their teen years, and motivate them toward a God-honoring, outward-focused lifestyle.

75. Paying for College (Room 205)

By Gary Mason

Do you wonder how you will be able to help your student afford college? Do you have questions about the different kinds of financial aid available and how to apply for them? With the many kinds of aid that are available, you should not assume that any college is "out of reach." In this session, we will discuss a wide range of topics relating to financial aid and how to find it and secure it.

76. Generations Past, Present, and Future (Rooms 201-202)

By James Muffett

This powerful multimedia presentation provides a compelling look at our country's past, present, and future in light of the scriptural charge to be salt & light in our society.

77. Fulfilling the Great Commission without Sacrificing Your Children (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Mercy Hope

How long has it been since your family led another soul into the Family of God? Are you satisfied with your effectiveness when it comes to impacting the world around you? Do you shelter your children? Or is your focus on being culturally relevant? What is the balance? This message will explore how to reach out to those needing Christ's love while still protecting your children and strengthening your family unity.

78. Things I Wish I'd Known (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Kathy Holcomb

Looking back at our homeschool journey, there are lots of memories, things we did right, things we did wrong and things we would do differently now. "If only I'd known" is my two cents about our experience as we homeschooled through babies, toddlers, kids and teens. This will range from the funny to serious, and may be helpful to both new and veteran homeschoolers. We learned it's OK to make mistakes and it's hard to let go. In it all we saw the Lord work and move in all of our lives.

79. Becoming a Help Meet (Rooms 101-102)

By Shirley Solis

Come hear this wife's struggle to honor her husband. Her stories and experiences will help you understand and identify with your own journey. Learn about forgiveness, seeking direction from the Lord, acknowledging your emotions, and more. Be encouraged to endure this race so your "children arise and call you blessed; your husband also, and he praises you."

80. Maximize Your Influence: A Fathers Role (Rooms 103-104)

By Kenneth Knott

Many husbands and just as many wives often wonder: How can a father maximize his influence in a homeschool setting? Presented by a homeschooling father of seven children, this workshop offers a biblical, liberating philosophy on how a man can effectively act as principal and master teacher in his own home without the perceived stress related to these roles. Both newcomers and veterans to homeschooling will be empowered with the practical approaches offered in this workshop. Husbands and wives alike are welcome.

81. Managing the Family Project: Budgets and Schedules (Banquet Room 8)

By Marc Carrier

In this practical workshop you'll learn how to apply basic project management principles in the home to help you be a better steward of your time and money. Drawing on Marc's many years of experience as a senior project and program manager for multi-million dollar clients, this session has a Biblical focus, emphasizing how our efficiency in our homes can be a means of glorifying God.

82. Teaching Foreign Languages (Banquet Room 6)

By Ryan Cooper

Ryan's session will focus on teaching techniques that homeschooling parents can use to help their child learn foreign languages. Don't speak a second language? Don't worry, you can still apply these techniques! Also:

- Learn about Michigan Educational law regarding Foreign Languages and high school graduation
- Reviews and grades given to many of the most popular Foreign Language teaching tools and curricula
- Learn how the brain acquires language skills, and how memory and language work together

Come join us and prepare to have fun!

83. Teaching Literature (Banquet Room 4)

By Joshua Reish

Do names like Shakespeare, Milton, and Longfellow intimidate you as a teacher? Teaching literature can seem like a whirlwind of obscure terms and incomprehensible books. But in this presentation Joshua shows you how to teach your student to analyze the various aspects of the classics, from symbolism, to subtext, to the characters in a way that is easy to understand using examples from some of the books he has taught in beginning literary analysis classes. He will also take you step-by-step through the process of breaking down a complex work of literature in a way that makes the book understandable. In addition, you will learn how to gradually introduce literary analysis to students who have never studied literature before. Your student can develop a deep understanding of the classics in addition to strengthening his or her critical thinking skills through literature.

84. When Socialization IS an Issue (Banquet Room 2)

By Melinda Boring

Does your child have difficulty when trying to join an activity? Does your child fail to make eye contact or respond inconsistently to others' interaction attempts? Perhaps your child tends to monopolize conversations or has a limited number of subjects he prefers to discuss. Children with special needs such as Learning Disabilities, Autism, or Attention Deficit Disorder frequently need extra practice and specific instructions to develop important social skills. Learn how to identify specific aspects of social skills and ways to gently teach them through daily activities and games.

85. Culture Wars: How They Affect the Homeschool Family (Main Hall A)

By Voddie Baucham

It is impossible to separate education and worldview. In fact, the main purpose of education is worldview discipleship. There is a mighty clash of worldviews going on all around us, and there is no way to escape. Educating our children at home will only postpone the inevitable. Our children WILL engage the culture. The only question is, will they do so as lambs going off to slaughter, or will they be sheep among wolves who are "wise as serpents and innocent as doves"? (Matthew 10:16)

86. The Counterfeit Life: Entertainment's Deceptive Messages (Rooms 203-204)

By Phillip Telfer

Today's entertainment has become one of the biggest stumbling blocks of spiritual growth and family health in this generation. It often portrays deceptive messages about what it means to live life to the fullest. Many hearts and minds have been poisoned with wrong ideas about relationships, accomplishment, purpose, and identity through toxic entertainment. Learn about the messages prevalent in today's media that could rob you of the real life that God wants you to have.

87. Prelude to Proverbs 31: Making the Most of Your Single Years (for Young Ladies) (Room 205)

By Phylicia Duran

Phylicia Duran, a single homeschool graduate in her 20s, will lead this discussion on using the time after high school graduation to cultivate different skills, learn what it is God has gifted us to do, and live out those gifts with purpose. It will concentrate on being Proverbs 31 women, though not presently or even necessarily wives. She will focus on being content and living joyfully in one's present situation. Following this session, Phylicia is hoping to have an informal discussion about this important topic: "Can Girls Have Guys as Friends?" Feel free to stick around for awhile (or join us at the end of convention) as we confront issues such as flirtation, contentment, friendships, and family.

88. Raising Spiritual Giants in a World Gone Awry (Rooms 201-202)

By Steve Lambert

Who among us hasn't seen the relentless slide of our popular culture? What parent isn't aware of the dangers and threats that exist today that were unimaginable just 40 years ago? Who doesn't want to raise sons and daughters who have the faith, the character and the knowledge necessary to walk through the world and lead others to the Hope that we know and love? Theories abound on how to raise spiritual giants in a world gone awry, but you'll discover the one unbelievably simple technique that can give your children their best chance in the years ahead.

89. Looking Back So We Can Move Forward (Banquet Rooms 1 & 3)

By Kathy Holcomb

Most of us have enjoyed Michigan homeschooling freedoms for our entire homeschooling journey. Imagine this: you're homeschooling the kids with the shades drawn, making sure you never run errands during traditional school hours, and hoping that your neighbors don't call social services or the truancy officer on your family. Sound like a bad dream? Believe it or not, this was the reality for Michigan homeschool pioneers. Learn about the history of homeschooling in Michigan before 1996, why it's important to be diligent in our attention to political rumblings about education, and why it's imperative that we live up to the homeschooling reputation that we've inherited.

90. Habits are Important! (Banquet Rooms 5 & 7)

By Shirley Solis

Homeschooling pioneer, teacher and philosopher Charlotte Mason said "the mother who takes pains to endow her children with good habits secures for herself smooth and easy days." Shirley shares why habits are so important and how they impact our lives. This enlightening message gives tips on building habits of obedience, orderliness, attention, and more, in ourselves and our children.

91. Mom's Role in Raising Men (Rooms 101-102)

By Michelle Miller

Michelle shares the painful realization that she has, while trying to be a good mother, unwittingly taken upon herself areas of her sons' training where God has gifted men to have special impact. While exploring the unique role of fathers (in teaching godly manhood, building a work ethic, etc.), Michelle became conscious of powerful obstructions and their fettering of Christian parents trying to reproduce the faith in the next generation. Fathers report seeing the awesomeness and challenges of their mission in a whole new way!

92. Homeschooling with the Heart of the Father (Rooms 103-104)

By Bret Welshmyer

Consider ways to model your homeschool after our Heavenly Father. We can follow the example found in Psalm 139 of God's heart for us, his children. Learn practical parenting principles from the very practical ways God relates to us. Real life examples will make this workshop easy to apply to daily life with your children.

93. Natural Childbirth and Childcare (Banquet Room 8)

By Dr. Patrick Johnston

What are the pros and cons of home-birthing? What are the pros and cons of a hospital birth? Which is safer for the mother and the child? What are the benefits of breast-feeding? What are the risks of bottle-feeding? What about circumcision? What about hormonal birth control? Come hear a pro-life family physician and pediatrician address these issues from a biblical Christian worldview.

94. Speak Up For God: The Ministry of Public Speaking (Banquet Room 6)

By Scott McCausey, Eddie Jones, & Cindy Sproles

Some are gifted as musicians, others as actors and some as writers, but the gift to speak lies deep within us all. Learning to present thoughts in a clear and concise manner helps in all forms of communications. In this workshop, attendees will learn ways to organize their thoughts, gain tips on beating the jitters, learn presentation suggestions, and the important "self-talk" to ready one's self to speak. Discover how to motivate, prepare and encourage your children to be good communicators. Speaking really is a ministry whether you're a minister, a parent or a public speaker. Your words can change lives.

95. Teaching Math as a Language: What Gets Lost in the Translation? (Banquet Room 4)

By Tom Clark

Did you know that Mathematics has parts of speech and sentence structure, just as does any spoken language? Did you know that understanding the "grammar" of Mathematics greatly helps student understanding of problem-solving and applications? In this workshop, Tom Clark, founder of VideoText Interactive, clearly and humorously demonstrates this quality of mathematical language. At last, you will truly understand the roles of all types of mathematical symbols, and you will see how easy it is to translate between Mathematics and English, enabling you to improve your understanding, and teaching, of "story problems", at all levels.

96. Processing Challenges? Yes, There is Hope! (Banquet Room 2)

By Stephanie Lankhorst

Do you know a child that has difficulty learning phonics and following directions, is highly distractible, and socially immature? Perhaps you are concerned because they have difficulty with math computation and are inconsistent in their recognition of numbers, letters and sight words. Group conversations are confusing to this child and he is visually distracted. If your child has difficulty in any of the above areas, they most likely have an auditory or visual processing problem. This session will help you determine if your child has a processing problem and will teach you what you can do to help.
